Spring Valley Clean Up Day set for Saturday, May 27

Once again the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce will be holding its annual Spring Valley Clean Up Day. This year's event will be held on Saturday, May 27 at Monte Vista High School.

Each year, more and more residents learn of the clean up day and take the opportunity to clean up their yards, garages, neighbor's yards, and even empty fields and alleys. It is citizens who care that go to these extra efforts.

This year's chairman, Tom Grilliot, has worked with "I Love A Clean San Diego" members to generate interest in the clean up day, which should prove to be a major success.

As always, Edco Disposal donates the dumpsters, the trucks and employees to collect the trash and haul it to the dump. Edco, a member of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce, gives this time back to the community because they care and want to get involved. According to Grilliot, "There is no way we can measure the importance of what Edco does for this community each year."

Collection time will be from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Monte Vista High School parking lot on Sweetwater Springs Blvd. The 2 p.m. stop time is VERY firm to allow the trucks time to get to the dump with all the loads. Donation is $2 per car and $5 per large truck.

This is an excellent time to get rid of junk, tree trimmings, hot water heaters, old appliances, etc. One thing that will not be accepted will be any toxic materials such as car batteries, paint, insecticides, household cleaners and solvents. For dates and locations to dispose of hazardous materials, call 236-2267.

For further information on Spring Valley Clean Up Day, call the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce at 697-2500.

Who will be "Fairest of the Fair?"

Rebecca Battleson, Miss Lemon Grove, and Danielle Guffey, Miss Spring Valley, get a peek from 1988 Fairest of the Fair, Maura Leonard, at the crown they will compete for in the 1989 Fairest of the Fair Pageant on May 26.

Zero tolerance drug plan to attack drug activities in public housing

More than 2,000 landlords throughout San Diego County have been notified that they will be required to act swiftly to evict tenants who are involved in illegal drug activities.

The mass mailing follows a call by County Supervisor George F. Bailey for zero tolerance for drugs in public housing. "Through this action," Bailey declared, "Section 8 recipients will know that housing officials will intensively monitor their eligibility for the program."

The landlords represent some 6,000 rental units which participate in the San Diego County Housing Authority's publicly-funded housing program.

The letter from the Housing Authority notifies landlords of the new zero tolerance of drugs effort. The concept recommended by Bailey was adopted last month by the San Diego County Board of Supervisors sitting as the Board of Commissioners for the Housing Authority.

The jurisdiction of the Housing Authority is the entire unincorporated area of the County plus the cities of Chula Vista, Coronado, Del Mar, El Cajon, Encinitas, Escondido, Imperial Beach, La Mesa, Lemon Grove, Oceanside, Poway, San Marcos, Santee, Solana Beach and Vista.

"Landlords will be urged to monitor what is happening on their property and work closely with housing and law enforcement officials when there are problems," said Bailey. "Through this action, individuals and families participating in the County's rental assistance program will know that housing officials will monitor their eligibility as well as their compliance with terms of their agreement."

"This is an important first step," declared Bailey, "in ridding all publicly-funded housing of drug activities and to disqualify recipients of housing subsidies if they are convicted of illegal drug activities."

The letter to landlords points out that the County Housing Authority will be sponsoring training and informational programs to assist landlords in dealing with illegal drug issues. The formal zero tolerance strategy is expected to be reviewed by Supervisors on June 13.

Going smokeless

All of the Sheriff's Detention Facilities in the County will become "non-smoking" facilities on July 1, 1989.

The change in policy is being made at the direction of Sheriff John Duffy in an effort to create a safer and healthier environment in the facilities for the inmates and staff who are exposed to the dangers of "second-hand," or "involuntary smoke."

Thirty-five young women from throughout San Diego County will be on stage this Friday evening, May 26, at the Del Mar Fairgrounds competing for the dual title of Fairest of the Fair/Miss San Diego County.

Rebecca Battleson, Miss Lemon Grove, 1989, is Lemon Grove's representative. Danielle Guffey, Miss Spring Valley, 1989, is representing Spring Valley.

The pageant will be a complete program of entertainment - with musical numbers, dancing by the contestants, an evening gown competition, unrehearsed questioning of the women and final selection of the Fairest and her court, all emceed by San Diego television personality Jack White.

On Thursday, a personal interview with the judges and a sportswear competition will be held.

Friday's pageant begins at 7 p.m. in Bing Crosby Hall on the fairgrounds. Admission is $5, which includes an illustrated program. For children 6-12, the charge is $1, and those 5 and under may enter free.

Admission is free to the Thursday sportswear competition, which also begins at 7 p.m. and is open to the public. For the interviews taking place in the afternoon, only the judges and contestants will be present.

The number of local community pageants has grown in the past four years from 26 to 35.

"More young women are interested in taking part now since we changed the rules," said Fran Scarborough, director of the pageant program. "More than 370 young women competed in the local pageants this year."

Three years ago the point system for judging was changed to emphasize the Fairest's role as the fair's ambassador.

Now the judges primarily evaluate the contestants' personality, ability to express themselves, and general poise.

The Fairest of the Fair/Miss San Diego County will be the fair's official hostess for the 19 days of the fair and, in her Spanish costumes, will welcome hundreds of thousands of visitors. She also will greet audiences at the grandstand concerts.

Winning the pageant has been the start of careers. In 1958, Raquel Welch, now a film star, was the Fairest of the Fair. In 1963, country singer Barbara Mandrell was a runner-up.

The 1989 Fairest of the Fair will receive many prizes, including $1,500 from the Del Mar Fair, a $1,500 scholarship from the fair's Don Diego Memorial Scholarship Fund, a lovely fur jacket from Graf Furs, a shoe wardrobe from Kinney Shoes, and entry fees to the Miss California USA Pageant, provided by the Del Mar Fair.

Becki Battleson sent the following statement, "As Miss Lemon Grove, I want to thank all of you for your kindness, generosity, and support as I prepared to represent our community in the "Fairest of the Fair" Pageant.

You can be assured that I will be doing my very best to bring home this title-and I want to invite all of you to attend the pageant in Del Mar."

Homeowners mailed assistance forms

More than 223,000 elderly and disabled California homeowners and renters are receiving their applications for the annual Homeowner or Renter Assistance Program, according to Controller Gray Davis.

Clara Mae (Hilton) Johnson, 84, home-maker

Memorial services for Clara Mae (Hilton) Johnson, formerly of Lemon Grove, were conducted Friday, May 19, at the Wood Mortuary, Greer, South Carolina.

A member of the Zoar United Methodist Church, Mrs. Johnson is survived by a son, Herbert Taylor of Greer; a sister, Katherine Hilton of Lemon Grove; three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

The family has arthritis foundation to: The Arthritis Foundation, 217 E. Stone Avenue, Greenville, South Carolina, 29609.

William Ott, 71, Mechanic

William P. Ott, 71, a resident of Lemon Grove for more than 36 years, died Monday following a brief illness.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., he was a resident of San Diego County for 63 years and a 1936 graduate of San Diego High School.

Mr. Ott was a commercial fisherman prior to employment at Kelco Co. and Rohr Aircraft. He spent 28 years as a mechanic with Federal Civil Service in San Diego. Mr. Ott and his son operated Bill's Auto Supply in Lemon Grove from 1963-67.

He was a former member of Levi's and Laces square dance club of Lemon Grove, past president of Aztec Flying Club, the Civil Air Patrol, and active with the North Island Bowling Club and the Mission Bay Marlin Club. He was a race car owner and member of the San Diego Racir Assn.

Mr. Ott is survived by his wife, Anne, a son, William, and a grandson, Darren, all of Lemon Grove. Also, a sister, Arva Hoffman, of Chula Vista and an aunt, Frances Martin, of New Mexico.

Funeral services and burial will be at El Camino Mortuary and Memorial Park, Friday, May 26, at 11:30 a.m.

Birth announcements appear on page 3 this week.

A shining example of (dis-)ability

Lemon Grove's Nanci Cotton is a petite and pretty woman who participates in a variety of competitive sports.

Like tennis and swimming, archery and road-racing, and basketball.

But she plays them all without the use of her legs.

Nine years ago, just before her twentieth birthday, Cotton was involved in an auto accident. She suffered a spinal injury which caused paralysis to her legs. But it's not something she cares to dwell on.

"It happened so long ago, it's just not an important part of my life anymore," Cotton commented.

Jason, her four-year-old son, is one important element of her life today, as is her co-directorship of the San Diego Junior Wheelchair Sports Camp, which fosters self-esteem, mobility and independence in children 7-18 years who have similar orthopedic injuries. A fundraiser is scheduled in La Mesa for July 14, she said.

Cotton plays basketball two days each week, and three more are spent in working out on the paved paths of Lake Murray to improve her roadracing skills and strength.

Never before active in sports, Cotton felt a need to become involved with a cause, upon her completion of physical therapy.

"I don't like to be told, 'You can't do that.' I've always had a real independent streak. When I'm told, 'You can't do this,' I have to do it for me!"

Roadracing is her sport of choice, and she participates in marathon and half-marathon competitions.

The wheelchair used for racing is a different species altogether than its heavier, awkward cousin we're accustomed to seeing. Its lighter frame is suspended between slender bicycle wheels and it's steered with front-wheel levers rather than strenuous manipulation of spinning rear wheels, Cotton pointed out.

She recently learned to ski through a program sponsored by the Torrey Pines Kiwanis Club & Easter Seal Society of San Diego County.

"... Skiing is fun!" said Cotton. The specialized equipment consists of a mono ski equipped with a shock absorber topped by a seat, she said. Outriggers replace the usual balance poles.

"It's hard! You have to learn how to lean your body to turn the ski, and there are no brakes!" Cotton noted cheerfully.

AmericaWest Airlines has provided the transportation for 50 local ski students to Durango, Colorado for the past five years, Cotton said.

A benefit event, The Willis M. Allen La Jolla Festival of the Arts and Food Faire, will be held at the Larry Lawrence Jewish Community Center, 4126 Executive Drive, Saturday, June 3, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, June 4, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Proceeds will fund the Disabled Skier Scholarship Program.

Cotton said she spends considerable time, too, in organizing a 10K race in China, in August, to be a part of an international triathlon.

And, she added, she plans to return to her studies - she is pursuing a degree in sports nutrition - when her son begins a longer school day in autumn.

"It's taken me 10 years to earn 35 units in college," Cotton laughed. But she's eagerly looking forward to the challenge.

Godspeed, Nanci.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

Americans are generous.

Give them a chance to help troubled people, and they'll open their hearts and their wallets.

These people should be applauded even though their generosity frequently leads them into strange pastures.

A few days ago, we received a communication from the American Cancer Society. It was from Lowell E. Irwin, M.D., president of the American Cancer Society, California Division.

What he reported should make most contributors to funds angry at being misled.

It is evident that many contributors are tricked into believing that their gifts are going to the American Cancer Society, the nationally-recognized group which assures that the money goes where it should.

The ACS communique charges that, "A $5,000 Irish sweepstakes letter, emblazoned with green shamrocks and a charity jackpot sweepstakes with a slot machine printed on the envelope is among the latest fundraising ploy from the Pacific West Cancer Fund and the Cancer Fund of America."

Continuing: a CBS '60 Minutes' segment on Sunday, March 12, revealed that some of the charities using these sweepstakes spend as much as 97% of what they raise on fundraising and administrative expense.

"The amount of money going to 'administrative and fundraising costs' in these charities," Dr.

Irwin said, "seems to indicate a cruel hoax being foisted on the public."

The direct-mail firm, Watson and Hughey of Alexandria, Virginia, conducts the sweepstakes mailing for Pacific West Cancer Fund and Cancer Fund of America.

Watson and Hughey clients also include Center for Alternative Cancer Research, Walker Cancer Research Institute and United Cancer Council, according to a March 6 Wall Street Journal report.

"60 Minutes" noted that Watson and Hughey took in $20 million in fees and expenses last year for handling sweepstakes mailings for 8 cancer and heart charities. U. S. postal inspectors and at least 6 states have sued Watson and Hughey and some of its clients.

The sweepstakes often leave the impression that the recipient is already a prize winner and only needs to send in a donation to receive the prize.

"The American Cancer Society is absolutely opposed to these offensive and misleading fundraising tactics," Dr. Irwin said.

"It's important that the generous people of California still give to their favorite charities - But please, be cautious, and be sure you know who you are giving to," continued Irwin.

Last year, the American Cancer Society, which relies on volunteers to raise money, distributed 77% of its income to cancer-control programs.

It's The Law

by Martin L. Shives, Attorney at Law

QUESTION: I have lived in my house for over 20 years. Some new neighbors moved in next door and told me they bought the house because of the view. The neighbors have asked me to cut my trees to improve their view. Do I have to cut my trees?

ANSWER: Probably not. Recent court decisions have upheld the long-standing rule in California. A landowner has no natural right to air, light, air or an unobstructed view and the law is reluctant to imply such a right.

When there is an express easement for light, air and view, however, one could be forced to cut their trees. For example, when once purchases a home, a title search is done. It is possible that some prior owner of the property agreed with a neighbor not to obstruct any view by allowing trees to grow.

This agreement was put in writing in the form of an easement and recorded. This express easement would then be a matter of record and any subsequent purchasers of the property would have notice and be bound not to let their trees grow to obstruct the neighbor's view.

Assuming there is no such easement or agreement involved, one could not be forced to cut their trees by a neighbor insisting on a view.

However, if one's trees hang over the property line onto the neighbor's property, the neighbor certainly has the right to have the trees trimmed back to the property line. This is due to the encroachment of the tree, not the blocking of a view.

Buyers beware! Many of us purchase a house and comment on the lovely view. This view can quickly vanish as the result of some healthy growing trees on neighboring property.

Also, be careful of representations made by a seller of real property having to do not only with the view, but anything related to the property.

If you are buying a house based on certain representations, make sure those representations are in writing. Examples are: The neighbor has agreed not to grow his trees to block our view; there will never be any building across the street; this dead end street will never be cut through.

Purchasing a house is a big step in one's life. Make sure you think ahead. Ask the right questions and be a knowledgeable purchaser. Enjoy your new house. Enjoy your neighbors.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

After our harrowing experience with the big boat down at our place in Puertecitos, Mexico, my wife made a stern promise, "God, get us back on land safe and sound and I'll never go out on the salty seas again."

We had gone down to the Islands, about 40 miles south of our casa, to fish for the "biggies." Just as the fish started to bite, a fierce storm came up suddenly and our big, fun boat would not start. I tried until the battery was dead, at which time we were at the mercy of the ravaging sea.

We tried frantically to attract other boats that were high-tailing to port. Even with my white shirt waving from one of the longest fishing poles, not one saw us or paid any attention. Our 18-foot fiberglass boat was bobbing like a cork in those ferocious waves.

Finally, after much prayer and waving to get attention, a huge yacht came to our rescue and towed us to our shore. My wife and I both jumped out of the boat and kissed the land. We now had found more fear and respect for the mighty sea.

To fulfill my wife's pledge to the Lord, we sold the big boat and I settled for a little dinghy (which my wife has been calling me for years). The pledge also included my promise, "I will never go out in the Gulf any further than the site of our hacienda."

With all the promises and pledges out of the way, it was now time to acquire my new fishing boat. I found just what I wanted at a local sports and boat shop; a 12-foot Alumacraft car top with a 15 horsepower motor, a far cry from the one we just sold, but a promise is a promise.

With the new boat I had to purchase several accessories: paddles, cushions, anchor, rope, gas can, and some sturdy car-top boat carriers. The helpful store people loaded the new boat on top of my Jeep Cherokee, filled the back seat with all the extras, and I was off for home, anxious to show the wife my new toy.

I was so excited and anxious that I drove full-tilt right into our brand new carport on the rear of the house.

My sweet wife heard the crash and stuck her head out of the window, "Do you know that you have just changed the roof design of our brand new carport from Shed to Gable Style with your new boat proving that you're still a little dinghy."

MTDB says PUC has power to reduce trolley traffic delays

Traffic delays which are aggravating motorists at the Lemon Grove Avenue and Broadway intersection by overlong traffic gates of the Metro Transit trolleys, may be eased soon.

Delays are caused by the gates blocking traffic while the trolleys are loading or unloading at the Lemon Grove station.

Peter Tereschuck, MTDB director of transit rail safety, said that a schedule that would shorten the gates' downtime had been developed during the practice runs prior to the opening of the Lemon Grove section but the schedule had to be approved by the Public Utilities Commission.

"PUC controls the operational element of the entire line," Tereschuck said. "We have no latitude at all."

"The program we tested and submitted to the PUC for permission to employ would reduce the traffic holdup from a minute and 30 seconds to 30-35 seconds," he said. "I am confident that PUC will approve our program since there is no outstanding safety issue involved."

Simply put, it would permit the gates to be raised while the train is stopped in the station. There is a small glitch in the program, however. There is single tracking on the Grove-94 overpass, and at times a train at the Lemon Grove station must wait until the coming train's passover is complete.

There are other problems the trolley operation eyes. Until the latest element was operative, the system lost 10-15 control gates a month.

"We expect such damage to be paid for by motorists," Tereschuck said. "Labor and material charges run $100-$150. That's for a gate section being broken off. Where the damage includes lights and the lifting mechanism, the cost could be several thousand dollars."

Most of the gate-breaking occurs in the south bay area by trucks, he added.

He also said that people on the right-of-way are in danger. Trains cannot stop like autos. "Our fare inspectors report these infractions via radio. Security people who ride the trains cite trespassers. The charge is a misdemeanor and carries a $40 fine plus $16 court costs."

The same process is used on those who fail to purchase tickets, who do not respect the restrictions of drinking or eating aboard the train, or those who are determined to ride with their feet on the seats or become unruly. Citations can be given by fare inspectors or by security people.

Citations also face motorists who fail to respect the double white lines at gate crossings. In Lemon Grove, the citations are usually handled by the Lemon Grove traffic squad.

According to Traffic Chief Sgt. Dusty Burkett, only warnings will be given until the end of the month of May; after that, miscreants will transact the matter in the El Cajon courts.

Concern was expressed by Burkett regarding school youngsters, as well as adults, who "hop the fence," mostly at the east terminus of Pacific Avenue.

Letters

Trolley safety concerns expressed

I'm writing as a concerned parent and a citizen of Lemon Grove. I must say I'm appalled at the cavalier attitude the Lemon Grove City Council, the MTDB, and the La Mesa/Spring Valley School Board have taken concerning the safety of our children now that the trolley is a reality.

Just today, as I was awaiting my children on the corner of Central and Lemon Grove Avenue, there were three children playing on and near the tracks. When the gates came down, they decided to stand next to the tracks to watch the trolley go by. I shudder to think what could have happened had I not chased them to the back of the fence.

Does the safety of our community's children mean so little? It seems to me that the above-mentioned community leaders feel it is unnecessary to take some kind of action to insure their safety.

It's time to stop passing the buck and do something before we have a serious problem. What's it going to take? Does one of our community's most precious assets have to be killed before anything gets done? Isn't it bad enough that these children must cross Lemon Grove Avenue (a main thoroughfare). Now they have the added hazard of the trolley.

Let's stop wasting precious time and energy and find a way to keep our children safe.

Mrs. Sandy Knoblauch
Lemon Grove

Students present second annual art show

By Kathy Logue

Members of the community as well as the faculty and students of Mount Miguel were treated to an art show on May 19.

The Art and Photography Clubs put on their second annual Art Show last week. Various types of two-and three-dimensional art and photographic compositions from all of Mount Miguel's art and photography classes were put on display in the patio adjacent to the art department building. Among the many works on display were some pieces which had been present at the Grossmont Union High School District Art Competition. A number of works were also on sale.

For a $1 donation at the door, visitors were able to examine the artwork at their leisure and have refreshments.

According to Ms. Mandell, a photography teacher and advisor of the photo club, the art show was intended "to make the staff, faculty and students aware of the artwork created at Mount Miguel."

A total sum of $90 was raised, and will be divided among the sponsoring clubs.

Mount Miguel "shines" in theatrical presentation

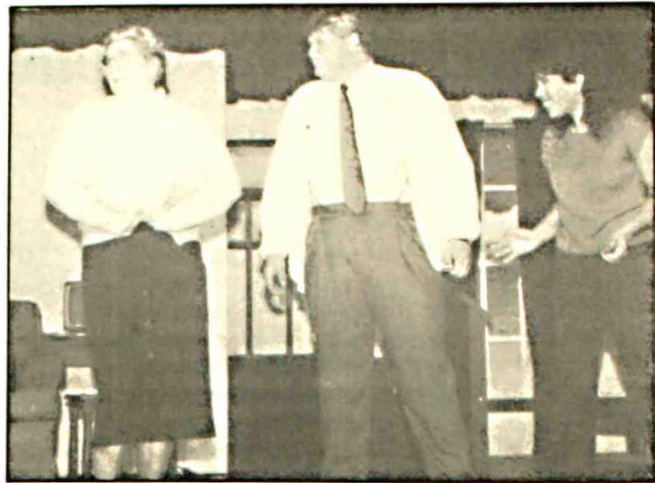

By Norma Alonzo

Mount Miguel's drama program again presented the shining talent of the students in a light, entertaining comedy called "George Washington Slept Here." The play, held in the school's cafeteria, was presented May 16-19, and was the second major production delivered by the drama students this year under the direction of Myrna Goodwin.

A spinoff from the movie, "The Money Pit," "George Washington Slept Here" follows the defeats and successes of one Newton Fuller, a city-bred nature and historian lover, who buys an abandoned farmhouse rumored to have once been occupied by George Washington.

With the realization that the disaster he bought was slept in not by George Washington, but by Benedict Arnold, things slowly turn to the worse for Newton Fuller. Fortunately, this country loves happy endings, and after the initial clean-up scene, a great "let's have a little drink" scene, and a very engaging wrecking scene, a happy ending was achieved.

Sean Crumpacker gave a funny performance as Newton Fuller; while his co-star, Jennifer Munoz, was the picture of sarcasm in her portrayal of Newton's wife, Annabelle. Carla Howl was fussy and irritating as the heroine of the day, Aunt Gertrude.

A special tribute should go to Marily Oliveira, as the exasperated maid, Juanita; James Spry as Raymond, Annabelle's little monster of a nephew; and Bobby Bacalski as the ever-handy Mr. Kimber. Just as crowning were Melanie Cuniff and Scott Kennerly as the Fuller's daughter, Madge, and her boyfriend, Steve Eldridge. Adding more spice to the production were Brandi Stepp as the charming Mrs. Douglas, and Bob Dickinson as the evillymoustached neighbor, Mr. Prescott. An extra bonus was the charismatic playboy Clayton Evans, played by the tuxedo-donned Doug Kemp, and his elegant wife, Rita Leslie, played by Yvonne Aguirre.

Rounding out the cast were the Teenagers, lively played by Liz Rabena, Dwayne Buth, Stephanie Szuch, Angelle Taggett, Jason Garcia, Carl Patterson, Mitch Mannion, Torrey Stepp, and Alexea Ringo.

The background and set which were wonderfully diverse and fitting, also.

Boys learning basic dance skills

The Community Ballet Theatre may be the only dance group in the county to conduct a class exclusively for boys, according to Teresa Wells, the organization's director.

Basic dance skills, often learned by professional sports stars, assists in coordination and muscle control on the sports field, she said. The young men in the photo preferred to remain anonymous for the present.

The Lemon Grove Arts Complex will also conduct art programs, a video equipment workshop and a puppeteer class during summer afternoons, and innovative performance art in a cozy cabaret setting on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Lemon Grove student awarded four week travel-study trip to Germany

Susan Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert and Martha Hodges of Lemon Grove, has recently been awarded a four-week, all-expense-paid study trip to the Federal Republic of Germany.

Susan was one of over 18,000 students who competed for the study-trip by participating in a nationwide German testing program administered by the American Association of Teachers of German. Founded in 1926, the AATG with a membership of 6,500, is the only national organization representing German teachers at all levels of instruction. The AATG is dedicated to the advancement and improvement of the teaching of the language, literature and culture of the German-speaking countries.

69 students were eventually selected to receive the prestigious prize. The study-trip awards have been made possible annually for over two decades by a grant from the Federal Republic of Germany through its Embassy in Washington, D.C.

Susan and the other trip winners are due to leave for Germany from New York City on June 27 with return scheduled for July 25. While in Germany, the participants will live with families in Bavaria, attend classes at a German secondary school and take part in excursions of cultural and historic. A highlight of the program will be a four-day trip to West Berlin with tours of both East and West Berlin scheduled.

Susan is a student at Lutheran High School in San Diego. Marsha Lucas is her German teacher.

Commencement exercises planned

On June 16, approximately 3,894 senior students from the nine comprehensive high schools in the Grossmont Union High School district will be donning caps and gowns for commencement exercises and graduation from high school. An additional 80 seniors elected to end their school work in January of this year, but many of these students will return to participate in the commencement ceremonies. Severely Handicapped Division students will have their graduation on June 9 and Educationally Retarded students will graduate on June 15. Adult School ceremonies will be held on June 14.

Grossmont High School this year will have 418 graduates. Helix High will graduate 467, of which 7 were January grads. El Cajon High School has a total of 362, including 7 seniors who graduated in January. Mount Miguel's senior class this year totals 425, with 21 January grads. El Capitan lists 441 graduating seniors, with 8 seniors completing their work in January. Granite Hills' graduating class totals 474, including 9 January grads. Monte Vista has a total of 478 graduating seniors, with 9 choosing to finish at mid-year. Santana's graduating class totals 497, with 15 mid-year graduates. And, finally, Valhalla has 412 graduating seniors, with 4 finishing in January. Twelve of the graduating seniors from the 9 high schools will be honored as class valedictorians. Grossmont High School has 2 valedictorians and Monte Vista High School has 3. The other 7 schools each have 1 valedictorian.

The valedictorians and salutatorians of Grossmont, Helix, Mt. Miguel and Monte Vista are:

Grossmont High School-valedictorians Laura Hackett and Levente Juhasz, salutatorian Lisa Giannangeli; Helix High School-valedictorian Robert Price, salutatorian Mark Pettis; Mt. Miguel High School-valedictorian Carrie Mayes, salutatorian Rose Yambao; Monte Vista High School-valedictorians Susanne Ching, Matthew Fellows, Susan Fitzer, salutatorian Jason Borchert.

The graduation ceremonies will be held June 16 at 5 p.m. for Grossmont High School in Grossmont Stadium; Helix High School is at 6 p.m. at Benton Hart Stadium (Helix High School); Mt. Miguel High School is at 6 p.m. at Mt. Miguel Stadium; and Monte Vista High School begins at 4:30 p.m. at Monte Vista Stadium.

Monte Vista hopes to beat previous record in annual blood drive May 31

Monte Vista Key Club wants to suck your blood. Monte Vista is holding their annual blood drive on Wednesday, May 31, in the Monte Vista gymnasium. The blood drive will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., and is open to not only Monte Vista students but also the public. The San Diego Blood Bank handles all operations dealing with the blood in order to ensure safety.

Many staff members, alumni, family members and students have recently benefited from the blood given at the blood drive; most recently, Wendy Skinner. Wendy was suffering from a kidney problem and used several pints of the blood.

Currently, Monte Vista has over 500 pints of blood, but the supply must be frequently replenished. Monte Vista has consistently donated the most pints of blood in the entire county! They broke their previous record of 180 pints of blood by giving nearly 220 pints of blood in last year's drive. They are hoping to break that record again this year.

The blood drive is open to the public and your support is greatly needed! Please take the time Wednesday to drop by and give a pint of your blood; the process does not take long and adults are accepted before students. Donors need to weigh more than 110 pounds, be seventeen or older, and be in good health. Remember - it's better to give than to receive.

Junior Lifeguard tests set for June 4

The California State Junior Lifeguard tests for boys and girls 9-16 will be held at Brooks Street pool, Brooks St., Oceanside, Sunday, June 4. Tests will also be at Carlsbad Swim Complex, 3401 Monroe St., Carlsbad, Sunday June 4.

Necessary papers can be signed for the swim test by a parent or guardian at the time of the swim. Those passing the test will have classes starting July 10 through August 18.

GCCA women to install officers

The Women's Committee of the Grossmont Community Concert Association will hold their annual installation of incoming officers for the coming year at a luncheon at Singing Hills Country Club, 3007 Dehesa Rd., El Cajon. The price of the luncheon will be $8 per person.

The installation of officers will be directed by Bea Elliott; the program will include Chet Smith, President of GCCA, who will entertain with a fascinating xylophone performance and the Euterpe Chorus will sing various selections.

Please make reservations by sending your check to: GCCA, Women's Committee, Venus Smith, Chairman, 3341 Central Ave., Spring Valley, 92077. Deadline is June 3.

Summer movie preview

Major studios plan to fill theaters with "sure-thing" films

By Joe Freed

The summer looks as though it may be one of the most competitive film seasons in history. Hoping to build on 35 months of movie prosperity, major studios are filling theaters with "sure-thing" formula films. As a result, the months of May through August, 1989, will surely come to be known as the summer of sequels.

The season begins with one of its heaviest hitters, Lucasfilm's Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade, the last chapter in a trilogy, whose first two installments placed in the top 10 money making films of motion picture history.

Harrison Ford returns as the heroic Indiana, this time joined by Sean Connery as Henry Jones, Indy's father. With Ford and Connery starring, Steven Spielberg directing and George Lucas as executive producer... well, let's just say that I bought my tickets two weeks before opening night.

Keeping up with the Joneses is the crew of the U.S.S. Enterprise in Star Trek V: The Final Frontier, another space-age romp with Captain Kirk, Spock and enough of those rotten Klingons to keep us excited until Star Trek VI - assuming there will be one. With the usual $100 million gross and a cast who's so typecast they can't get any other roles - why not?

The weekend after Star Trek opens, audiences will find themselves up to their armpits in slime when the boys in Ghostbusters II save New York from spiritual terror (again?). Here's hoping Bill Murray, Dan Akroyd and Harold Ramis can live up to the expectations set by the hilarious original.

I guess summer just wouldn't be summer without a few horror movies and this year we'll have A Nightmare on Elm Street Part 5: The Dream Child and Friday The 13th Part VIII to look forward to. Well I'm really not looking forward to them but I'm sure somebody is... somebody warped and demented with a fetish for severed heads.

Timothy Dalton will return as Bond, James Bond, in the 16th film in the 007 series License to Kill, and Mel Gibson teams up with Danny Glover in Lethal Weapon II. Both films should be worth seeing if they stick to one, basic principal... violence. Judging by Hollywood's track record, they probably will.

The Karate Kid III opens June 30 with Ralph Macchio and Pat Morita reprising their roles as Daniel and Miyagi, fighting back against incredible odds. I've seen the previews and it looks to me like a rehash of the first two films.

The Karate Kid is looking a little too much like Rocky - first we lose then we win. If Daniel ever fights a big guy from Russia, somebody call Sylvester Stallone.

And if you have a passion for Roman numerology and are still wanting more after even all that - don't worry. The Christmas season is right around the corner with Back to the Future II, American Ninja III, Meatballs IV, Beverly Hills Cop III, Halloween V, Eddie and the Cruisers II, The Return of the Musketeers, and the film that will surely become a modern classic, Hollywood Boulevard 2.

I don't even remember a Hollywood Boulevard 1, do you?

"Legends of Rock & Roll" at Wild Animal Park

The San Diego Wild Animal Park celebrates the age of "golden oldies" May 27-28 when the "Legends of Rock & Roll" take the stage in Mahala Amphitheater.

The Platters, the Coasters, and Bobby Freeman will appear on Saturday and Sunday this Memorial Day holiday weekend. Shows are scheduled for 5 p.m. each day, and are free with admission to the Wild Animal Park.

Concert-goers are encouraged to bring blankets and backrests for seating, but no chairs, radios or alcoholic beverages may be brought into the Park.

The Platters were the most popular vocal group of the 1950's, recording a series of hits that started with 1955's "Only You." Formed in Los Angeles in 1953, the four-man group was managed by songwriter Buck Ram and signed to a minor label that churned out a handful of unsuccessful recordings. Maintaining a belief in the group's potential, Ram recruited a 15-year-old vocalist named Zola Taylor to give them a new sound, and sought a larger record company to carry the Platters. Mercury Records took the Platters in 1955, and the group began a swift climb to the top of the popular music charts. Between 1955 and 1960, the Platters had four number one hits and 16 gold records. "Only You," "The Great Pretender," "Twilight Time," "The Magic Touch" and "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" are timeless songs, as good today as they were 30 years ago.

The Coasters were also founded in Los Angeles, formed around a core of one-time members of the Robins in 1956. They signed with Atco, a subsidiary of Atlantic Records, and in 1957 had their first hit with "Young Blood." The hits continued through 1961, and included such classics as "Yakety Yak," "Charlie Brown," "Poison Ivy" and "Little Egypt."

Rounding out the bill is Bobby Freeman, whose dance-craze hits "Do You Wanna Dance" and "C'mon and Dance" made him one of the biggest pop artists of the late '50s and early '60s. Dubbed "Mr. Excitement" by the late Jackie Wilson, Bobby Freeman has been performing on stage since the tender age of 14, and still delivers a high-energy show to audiences throughout the country each year. Other hits include "Betty Lou Got A New Pair of Shoes," "Need Your Love" and "Shimmy Shimmy."

Three other concerts are planned for the Wild Animal Park's summer season. Scheduled are Blood, Sweat & Tears, July 1-3; Jan & Dean, July 29-30; and the Kingston Trio, September 2-3.

The Wild Animal Park is located 6 miles east of Escondido on Highway 78. Admission-and-monorail ticket package costs $12.95 for adults, $6.20 for children 3-15, and free for children under 3.

Republican women to hold fashion show

"Celebrations in Style" will be the theme of a spring fashion show, to be held by the San Diego County Federation of Republican Women on Monday, June 12, at the Bahia Hotel.

Fashions will be provided by "Monkey Business", and there will be many lovely door and raffle prizes, including an "opportunity drawing" worth $500.

June Wallin, President of the California Federation, and Charlotte Mousel, 2nd Vice President of the National Federation, will attend.

The public is welcome. Tickets to the luncheon-fashion show are $17.50, with proceeds to go to the San Diego County Federation Scholarship Account.

The regular June meeting will commence at 10 a.m. in the Mission Room of the Bahia, followed by no-host cocktails at 11:30 a.m. and luncheon at 12:15 p.m. For reservations, call Dorothy Bradley, 295-8742.

Alvarado Medical Plaza construction begins

Construction on the $6.6 million, 55,000-square-foot Alvarado Medical Plaza III has begun on the campus of Alvarado Hospital Medical Center in Mission Valley. The medical office building is being developed, leased and managed by San Diego-based Pacific Medical Buildings. The project is currently 83 percent pre-leased and will provide custom-designed physician office suites for Alvarado Hospital staff physicians. The new facility is part of a $45 million campus renovation and expansion.

Louis Hansotte honored as outstanding California real estate educator

Louis Hansotte, Real Estate Instructor at Cuyamaca College, has been selected as the 1988 Norm Woest Award Winner. This award is given each year to an outstanding California real estate educator.

A member of the East San Diego County Board of Realtors and senior partner in the law firm of Hansotte, Nostran and Lange, Mr. Hansotte has lectured extensively, as well as written several articles and books on real estate.

Family restaurant opens in Lemon Grove

Vic Maalouf, a former chef, recently opened Victor's Family Restaurant at 6929 Federal Blvd. in Lemon Grove.

Open daily from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m., the quiet, family-oriented establishment offers homestyle dinners, sandwiches, a variety of wines and a selection of domestic beers, at reasonable prices (steak dinners to $7).

A restaurateur of 33 years, Maalouf is also planning a July opening of a steak & seafood house, the Center Cut, in Chula Vista.

In-N-Out Burger to open first San Diego County location in Lemon Grove

An In-N-Out Burger, which will be the first restaurant of the Los Angeles based family-owned chain to open in San Diego County, has signed a $1,740,485 lease for 2,595 square feet of space at Lemon Grove Plaza, a new community shopping center under construction at the northwest corner of Broadway and Massachusetts Avenue in Lemon Grove.

In-N-Out's first location will open in Lemon Grove Plaza in December of this year, with a second location opening in Vista the first quarter of 1990. Chris Smith of LandGrant Development represented both parties in the transaction.

The 14-acre, 157,243 square foot center, being developed by LandGrant Development, will be anchored by an Alpha Beta Food and Drug combination store, House of Fabrics, and Dress to the Nines. Other tenants will include Mail Boxes, Etc., Plaza Cleaners, Picway Shoes, Video Discount, Godfather's Pizza, Great American Bank, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Carl's Jr.

Lemon Grove Plaza was designed by Schoell and Paul, Architects of San Diego. The Hazard Company is site contractor, and leasing is being handled by LandGrant Development. Completion of the center is scheduled for August, 1989.

Forum Publications doubles distribution

Forum Publications, Inc. began publication today of a new weekly newspaper in La Mesa — the La Mesa Forum.

Publisher Pete Kaufman stated that he was pleased to be able to serve La Mesa, as well as Lemon Grove and Spring Valley, and plans to build each paper into a strong, independent community newspaper, serving the specific needs of the community for which it is published.

"The addition of La Mesa will be beneficial for our advertisers, who now can reach twice as many potential customers," Kaufman said.

Drew Hyundai earns membership to 1988 "Board of Excellence"

Drew Hyundai has earned membership in the exclusive 1988 Board of Excellence from Hyundai Motor America. The national award recognizes Drew Hyundai's outstanding achievement in sales and customer satisfaction.

Twenty-six dealers were honored as board members representing the top 10% nationally of the Hyundai Dealer Network, according to Joe Drew, president.

Drew Hyundai is located at 8850 Grossmont Blvd. in La Mesa.

Pasatiempo releases final phase of fourteen new executive homes in Rancho San Diego

With all 181 homes released to date sold in only five months, Pacific Scene's Pasatiempo at Rancho San Diego will release the seventh and final phase of 14 homes Saturday, June 3.

"Pasatiempo has sold like a whirlwind," said Jon Werner, Pacific Scene San Diego County division manager. "They're the finest homes built yet at master-planned Rancho San Diego, and they border a beautiful and long-established golf course. But the big factor has been square-footage value."

The 14 executive homes in phase seven at Pasatiempo range in price from the mid-$230,000's to the low $300,000's, with conventional financing and October occupancy. Homeowner's fee is $30 per month.

Including the four models, Pasatiempo comprises 199 Spanish Mediterranean homes valued at $45 million.

Architects Lorimer-Case have designed five plans of four and five bedrooms, 2 1/2 and 3 baths, and 2,151-2,960 square feet, all two-story. There are three-car attached garages. Lots average about 6,000 square feet.

Pasatiempo straddles Steele Canyon Road between Campo Road and the thickly-wooded banks of Sweetwater River. The development is virtually surrounded by Rancho San Diego Golf Course, a planned 6.4 acre park and natural-state open space. It is the first residential project in the Jamacha Village section of 3,000-acre Rancho San Diego.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

For Construction of Water Pipeline from San Carlos Area to Sweetwater Reservoir

Meeting Date: Wednesday, May 31, 1989

Time: 7:30 p.m.

Place: Lemon Grove Community Center
3146 School Lane
Lemon Grove, California

The San Diego County Water Authority invites public comments and questions on a proposal to build a major water pipeline that will extend 12 miles from the San Carlos area (Mission Gorge Road) in the north to just south of the Sweetwater Reservoir in the south. Other communities affected by the construction will be La Mesa, Rolando, Lemon Grove, Spring Valley and SDSU College area.

Installation of the proposed pipeline will include digging a trench 15 to 20 feet wide and 12 to 15 feet deep, laying the pipe in the trench, backfilling, and final restoration of the impacted area.

Construction is expected to begin in 1991. Traffic will be disrupted on many streets in these communities, and other environmental impacts can be expected.

For more information on specific streets and other aspects of the proposed project, contact: Larry Hobson, The San Diego County Water Authority, 610 West Fifth Avenue, Escondido, CA 92025, or call (619) 480-1991.

SPORTS

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Football returns to the front burner this week as National Football League owners gather in New Orleans to address a few perplexing problems. NFL owners, as a group, are hard-headed, egotistical, self-indulgent, over-rich, spoiled, vain, arrogant, over-aged children used to getting things done their way in life, love, business, and pleasurable pursuits.

The question is, can they work together? They face some stern tasks and only a solid "best effort" by this mixed bag of hard heads and tender egos is likely to bring success.

Their first order of business is the selection of a new commissioner. When Pete Rozelle dropped the bomb of his "retirement" on the owners last March, they were caught flat-footed. Rozelle's retirement was the best kept secret since the Manhattan Project.

Picking Rozelle's successor will be no easy matter. There are already sounds of conflict among owners about who should serve on the primary selection committee. If the fight starts there, there's no telling how long the battle will last in just choosing up sides.

And there are other matters that demand their study and agreement. There is the matter of the International Football League to be discussed. By itself, that will take an acre of understanding, insight and Solomon-like judgments.

Also on tap is the little matter of billion dollar impact on the city selected to host the 1991 Super Bowl. By previous agreement, the 1991 game will be assigned to a "northern" city, hopefully one with a domed stadium.

Chicago, Buffalo, and New England would love to host a Super Bowl event, but even NFL owners have enough common sense to realize what would happen if the Super festivities were to be interrupted by blizzard.

Going to a domed stadium doesn't completely eliminate the probability of disaster. The Astrodome in Houston is rain proof, but the Astros still had a rain-out a few years back.

A Buffalo style blizzard in Indianapolis, Minnesota, or Detroit on a Super Bowl Sunday could easily block out all movement. Cities come to a virtual standstill and often federal help is needed to bring in food and to get air and rail transportation moving again.

Seattle doesn't get that much snow, but of course, they do get rain and they could be flooded out. Of the northern cities in the running, Seattle looks like the safest bet, and damn wet.

On the matter of selecting a new commissioner, I'd like to suggest Ted Leitner. For those who don't know Ted, he is an on air and on-view San Diego sports person with expertise in football, baseball, basketball, boxing, soccer, the Olympics, and hockey fights.

Leitner may be the sports genius the NFL needs to keep their game productive and fulfilling. Chances are, Leitner can talk out any group of owners on any subject, anytime.

That's leadership.

Blind Recreation Center plans monthly fishing

The monthly fishing for the Blind at Lake Jennings is just one of many special activities coordinated by the Blind Recreation Center. On this special day, the Blind fisherpeople, along with their patient and caring volunteer assistants, gather on the pier out at beautiful Lake Jennings to do their thing. This most beautiful and practical fishing pier was built by San Diego Gas and Electric Company for the enjoyment of the Blind fishers.

The motto of the Blind Recreation Center is, "Many times failed have I, yet never have I failed to try."

For more information concerning activities for the Blind, call Patty at (619) 298-5021 or 5031, or write to the Administrator, Patricia Wilson, 1805 Upas Street, San Diego, 92103.

Co-ed volleyball tourney scheduled

May 31 is the registration deadline for the co-ed 4 on 4 Volleyball Tournament (2 men and 2 women, 18-years-old and over, per team) being held Saturday, June 3, at the Lemon Grove Recreation Center, 3131 School Lane in Lemon Grove.

The cost of $40 per team includes 4 T-shirts and a guarantee of at least 3 matches.

A team may have 6 players listed on its roster, but must play with only 2 men and 2 women. If less than 4 teams register, the tournament will be cancelled. The winning team will receive four Tachikara volleyballs.

The tournament, sponsored by the Lemon Grove Recreation Department and Valley Sport, will begin at 9 a.m. and go all day, or until there is a winner.

XTRA selects Soccer Team

Local radio station XTRA, NewsTalk Radio 690 AM has comprised its first ever all-American soccer team from San Diego counties' finest high school students.

The team members were chosen according to their athletic ability, as well as their academic performance, according to John Lynch, president of Noble Broadcast Group. Noble owns both XTRA, NewsTalk Radio 690 and 91X FM of San Diego.

"Because these students work extra hard in both school and sports, we are continuing the program we started in January that recognizes outstanding athletes," said Lynch. "Along with athletic achievement, all of the soccer players named to the all-American team have maintained at least a 3.0 grade point average."

The only local student athlete selected for the academic all-American, boys' and girls' soccer teams was Christine Oleksow of Monte Vista, a senior with a 3.76 grade point average.

Students were nominated by their coaches, who sent XTRA information on the students' athletic and academic achievements. All students chosen were formally recognized at their schools with a plaque presented by representatives from XTRA, NewsTalk Radio 690 AM.

Spring Valley resident named "Iron Maiden" in disabled sports event

Spring Valley resident Charlene Rawls, 40, received the "Iron Maiden" Award for her performance at Palomar College's 11th Annual Physically Limited Sports Day May 20.

Rawls competed in five athletic events - weight lifting, 100 meter swim, basketball free-throws, softball throws and 440 run - to win the first place Pentathlon trophy.

Rawls, a former member of the U.S. Disable Ski Team, was also a guest speaker at the daylong event which drew some 300 participants. She discussed the relationship between skiing and track and field events, which she uses to train for skiing during the summer months.

Even though she is no longer a member of the ski team, Rawls still regularly competes in disabled racing events. She will spend 6 weeks this summer in New Zealand for several '89/90 races including the World Disabled Championships in Winter Park, Colorado.

Rawls' leg was amputated below the knee in 1971 following a jeep accident. She took up skiing in 1972 and subsequently became the director of Challenge One, a nonprofit organization based in Jackson Hole, Wyoming, which provided instruction and guides for a variety of disabled sports such as biking, horseback riding, river rafting, downhill and cross country skiing.

Rawls is sponsored by RGP Orthopedic Appliance, Inc., the San Diego-based firm which fits her with special sport prostheses.

San Miguel hosts literary event

San Miguel Elementary School hosted a celebration of literature event, for twelve third-grade representatives from each of Lemon Grove's six elementary schools, Friday, in conjunction with the national 1989 Year of the Young Reader.

Conceived by reading specialists Nadine Haddock (San Miguel) and Carol Williams (Golden Avenue), 72 students enthusiastically celebrated activities inspired by a series of 7 books each of them had read.

Fingerpainting with chocolate pudding, a delicious project, was inspired by "The Chocolate Touch," by Patrick Skene Catling.

Velveteen Rabbits were patterned after a book of the same title, authored by Margery Williams.

Chautauqua '89 being held at Mount Miguel Covenant Village

The public is invited to the festive, four-day "Chautauqua '89" program being held this week at Mount Miguel Covenant Village, a continuing-care retirement community in Spring Valley owned by the Evangelical Covenant Church and operated by Covenant Retirement Communities.

According to George Clark, Administrator of Mount Miguel Covenant Village, the programs are being held in a large tent on the spacious "center green" lawn area. This is the traditional type of setting for the historic Chautauqua programs that date back to the 1880's.

Chautauqua had its beginning in upstate New York, in the little town of Chautauqua. Here, a summer training course was held for Methodist Sunday School teachers.

The course was so successful that it evolved into an eight-week program, offering courses in the arts, sciences, humanities and lectures on popular topics of the day. This led to the formation of "Chautauqua circuits" organized and presented at small towns across America and featuring groups of musicians, lecturers and artists.

On Thursday, the Ann Russell Cloggers will present a clog-dance performance at 10 a.m. A special educational presentation on "Habit for Humanity" is scheduled for 2:30 p.m., presented by Ken Sauder, area director for this organization.

At 6 p.m. Thursday, "The Headliners," a Dixieland music group, will perform, followed by a pie social.

On Friday, a "country fair" with a variety of games, contests and many special features will begin at 10 a.m. At noon, a barbecue lunch will be served.

For more detailed information about the Chautauqua programs, interested persons may call Mount Miguel Covenant Village at 479-4790.

Maude Johnson to celebrate 100th

Maude Elizabeth Jones Johnson was born on June 2, 1889, in Bandera County, Texas. The blessed event occurred with the helping hand of a midwife in the back woods of her father's ranch.

She was the youngest of five children with four older brothers. The entire family worked the ranch together through good and bad times.

Maude's mother passed away from tuberculosis four days before Maude's first birthday and left her father, Major Jones, to raise the five children alone. He was able to manage the boys and in fact, needed them to work on the ranch. However, Maude presented a problem as she was the youngest child and only girl.

Major had been married before and had an older daughter named Alice by that marriage. Several times over the next few years, Maude was taken to Alice's house and left under her care. Finally, Maude's father realized he was unable to take care of his daughter, then 6, and left her permanently at Alice's home to be raised by her.

While attending grade school, Maude met a young man named Edgar Epps Johnson, second cousin to former President Lyndon Baines Johnson. When Maude and Edgar were old enough, they began going to dances, potlucks and church socials together. Edgar would arrive at Maude's house in his horse and buggy and away they would go. Finally, Edgar got the nerve to pop the question and Maude, of course, said yes.

At the age of 24 years, they were married on the front porch of Edgar's parents home on December 24, 1913, in Vanderpool, Texas. Maude and Edgar lived with his parents and helped run the Vanderpool Post Office and general store. After a year or two, a small log cabin was built for them and the happy couple moved into their new home.

In 1916, Maude gave birth to their first daughter, Alice LaNelle. Three years later the family of three packed up and moved to El Centro, California. Once there, they purchased a 40-acre dairy farm.

In 1922, Maude became pregnant and decided to return to Texas to await the birth of her second child. She had another daughter and named her Zola Beth. When mother and daughter were strong enough, they returned to their home in El Centro.

The family moved to Lemon Grove in 1941, and Edgar worked at Convair during World War II. When the war was over, Edgar worked at Lemon Grove Lumber, where he remained until his retirement.

Maude's beloved Edgar passed away in 1979, at the age of 90, after 66 years of marriage.

Fortunately for her daughters, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, Maude is quite well and able to celebrate her 100th birthday on June 2, 1989.

SV Historical Society to eat and meet June 3
